THIS WEEK'S FEATURED HOME

Inspiration Home Coming Spring 2009

The Inspiration Home, an innovative showcase home will open its doors to the public for weekend tours in the Spring 2009, with ticket sales benefiting the Susan G. Komen for the Cure, Upstate Affiliate. Far different from a "dream home," the Inspiration Home is designed from the ground up to create a venue for old-world craftsmanship to coexist with innovative design and state-of-the-art technology. The three-story, 8,400-square-foot home is located in Cobblestone, a subdivision in Simpsonville, South Carolina.

"The Inspiration Home is about balance," said Jerry Fay, of Milestone Custom Homes, the visionary team that will bring the Inspiration Home to life.

The five-bedroom, seven-bath house features not only a Family Command Center, which will serve as the conduit for all family activity including meals, homework and entertainment, but also integrates a fourth-story children's loft and an opposing full basement. The grand room opens to a screened entertainment porch that overlooks a resort style swimming pool. In addition, the Inspiration Home will house billiards, a full potential workout space, master area spa and steam shower, built in locker room and a cutting edge home theater experience.

The Milestone Team and Community Journals will track the evolution of this home, unveiling the hottest home trends in the industry, through all of their publications including The Greenville Journal, The Anderson Journal and The Spartanburg Journal and their online home resource, JOURNALHOMES.com.

"We have wanted to participate in a project like this for some time," said Mark Johnston, publisher of The Community Journals.

"Our community will be able to follow the process step by step and it is our hope that they will truly be inspired."
